Profile

From the moment I produced "Hello world" in the console of my first application in my first year at campus, I knew I was hooked into the world of computers. Computer engineering has never been "just a course" for me, its offered an engaging challenge to continually learn and improve my knowledge and skills in creating applications. What started as a simple "hello world" has become a full-fledged passion that only gets more exciting as I continue learning and coming up with different stuff everyday.I am curently pursuing a Bachelors degree of Science in Computer Engineering at Busitema University who has a vigour to continue learning each and every single day to become better at what am doing.
